

6 ways integrated visibility solutions drive ROI

Amplify TMS value with Shipment and Order Visibility

Turn visibility into measurable performance

End-to-end visibility turns supply chain complexity into control. From origin through final delivery, a Transportation Management System (TMS) enabled with Shipment and Order Visibility gives you the insight to act faster, reduce disruption and drive measurable ROI.

6 measurable ROI benefits

1. Cost avoidance

Assess the financial effects of optimal routing and enhanced operational efficiency. Facil consolidates LTL shipments and selects the lowest-cost carriers using real-time rates, achieving 12% annual cost avoidance.

2. End-to-end visibility

Track every shipment with a clear, item-level view across the entire lifecycle. A global automaker monitors the movement of 9 million parts annually to inform stakeholders, reduce disruption and keep production on schedule.

3. Consistent delivery performance

Protect delivery commitments with real-time shipment tracking. Mölnlycke uses control tower visibility to manage carriers across a global network, ensuring reliable delivery of time-sensitive medical products.

4. Actionable, accurate data

Unify data to improve decision-making across planning and execution. Caliber.global connects internal teams, carriers and construction supply chain partners to optimize routing and execute in real time across all shipment modes and regions.

5. Operational metrics

Monitor performance and adjust quickly as conditions change. Sprouts Farmers Market identifies demand shifts and adapts to relieve pressure on distribution centers while optimizing truck capacity.

6. Sustainable efficiency

Maintain efficiency gains by executing every shipment based on the best mode, route and capacity utilization. Billerud automates mode and route selection to reduce manual processes and minimize vehicle miles across production, distribution and retail networks.
